Deluxe + Pod

A combined roof with a fixed glazed or solid section alongside rotating louvres.

Product shown in an example setting. Colours and options vary with the specification.

Deluxe + brings two roof treatments into one structure. A fixed section, available with glass or solid panels, sits alongside an adjustable louvred section. This makes it useful when one part of the terrace needs a permanent covering while another benefits from changing light and ventilation.

Suitable projects

- Terraces with separate dining and preparation zones
- A covered strip beside the property
- Outdoor kitchen projects where ventilation and appliance clearances can be satisfied

Options, practical details and the next step

Choose your options

- Fixed roof of glass or solid panels
- Motorised louvres rotating through up to 150°
- Integrated optional side screens
- Dimmable LED lighting and infra-red heating
- Freestanding or lean-to arrangement

Before you order

- Appliances beneath a roof require their own ventilation and clearance assessment.
- The fixed section does not open or retract.
- The combined footprint and drainage design must be confirmed for the site.

Give each part of the terrace the roof it needs

A glazed fixed strip can preserve daylight beside the house, while the louvred area adjusts shade over a table or seating space. A solid fixed section creates a different balance. We discuss the intended use of both areas before selecting the roof panels.

Plan cooking equipment separately

A pergola roof does not automatically make every barbecue or outdoor cooker suitable underneath it. Appliance instructions, heat clearances, smoke dispersal and ventilation must all be checked before an outdoor kitchen is designed into the space.

Common questions

What does the plus sign refer to?

It identifies the model that combines a fixed roof section with an opening louvred section. The fixed portion may use glass or solid panels.

Can the whole roof open?

No. The fixed section stays in place and only the louvred part rotates. Compare Prestige if a retracting roof is the priority.
