PRODUCT SELECTION / DECORATIVE BLINDS

Prism Acrylic Venetian Blinds

Transparent and translucent acrylic slats for a decorative light effect.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Prism Acrylic uses methacrylate slats to create a different relationship with light from an opaque timber blind. Transparent, translucent and selected film-effect options can produce a more decorative screen while retaining the horizontal geometry of a Venetian.

The material is acrylic, not ordinary glass. Its level of transparency depends on the selected finish, and the view through it can change substantially between day and night. A sample should therefore be assessed with light behind it as well as on a table.

- Decorative light transmission
- Transparent and translucent choices

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Compatible clear, coloured or diffusing finishes
- Selected shaped profiles
- Special film effects where confirmed

Practical points

- Not a blanket privacy or blackout solution
- Acrylic needs suitable cleaning and handling
- Solar-control claims require exact product evidence

How it works

The collection includes several shaped formats and slat proportions. The exact profile, width and control are confirmed for the chosen design. Reflective or solar-control effects are separate options and should not be assumed to apply to every acrylic finish.

Choosing the finish and details

Tell us whether the priority is colour, translucency, screening or a particular decorative effect. We can then narrow the compatible materials and explain the practical limits. Any requested solar performance is checked for the specific specification before it is quoted.

Measuring, supply and installation

AdamsBlinds provides measuring as part of a supply and installation project, plus made-to-measure supply-only quotations. Send approximate dimensions, photographs and the number of blinds required to get started. We confirm the specification and final sizes before manufacture. Factory availability, order quantity and any discontinued options are checked for your quotation.
