PRODUCT SELECTION / VENETIAN BLINDS

Cadence Wide Wood Blinds

Broad 50mm or 70mm wood slats for a more open view between the horizontal lines.

Cadence Wide is the main broad-slat abachi range. Choose a 50mm format for a familiar wooden Venetian appearance, or a 70mm format where larger windows and a stronger horizontal line suit the room. Both retain the texture and individual character of real wood.

The finish range covers painted colours, wood tones and selected decorative surfaces. It is possible to keep the whole blind quiet and coordinated, or use a contrasting tape to make the vertical detailing part of the design. The most suitable combination depends on the slat width and mechanism.

- Two broad slat widths
- Extensive finish and tape combinations
- Tilting light control with a timber finish

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Painted, wood-tone and selected decorative finishes
- Ladder cords, privacy layouts or compatible tapes
- Manual, crank or motor options after assessment
- Matching valance

Practical points

- Slat rotation needs adequate recess depth
- Finish choices vary by width and system
- Timber colour and grain are naturally variable

How it works

The slats tilt to vary daylight and screening, then gather above the glass when raised. Broad slats need room to rotate without catching handles, glazing bars or nearby fittings. For heavier or less accessible blinds, we can assess crank or motor operation rather than assuming a manual control will suit every opening.

Choosing the finish and details

A sample shortlist should include the slat finish and, where relevant, the tape. Gloss level changes the way the surface catches light; it is as useful to compare sheen as it is to compare colour. Adjacent blinds are specified together where alignment and finish consistency matter.
