PRODUCT SELECTION / VENETIAN BLINDS

Easycare Faux Wood Blinds

Synthetic wood-look Venetians for projects where easy care and humid-room suitability matter.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Easycare uses synthetic slats with a wood-like appearance. It gives the horizontal shape of a wooden Venetian without relying on natural timber for the slat material. The range is relevant when comparing options for kitchens, bathrooms and other rooms with higher humidity.

The right choice still depends on where the blind will sit. Humid air, direct splashing and heat from nearby appliances are different conditions. Tell us about the room and the window position so we can check the proposed material and fitting rather than treating every wet-room location as equivalent.

- Wood-like horizontal appearance
- An option for more humid interiors

How it works

The collection offers a choice of finishes with selected control and slat-detail options. Available widths and configurations are confirmed for each enquiry because published size descriptions are not consistent enough to treat as one universal specification. The quotation will set out the actual product supplied.

Choosing the finish and details

Compare the sample with a real wood option if texture is an important part of your design. Synthetic slats are selected for their own practical characteristics, and the finish should be judged on that basis. We can coordinate tapes and visible trim where the selected system allows.

Measuring, supply and installation

AdamsBlinds provides measuring as part of a supply and installation project, plus made-to-measure supply-only quotations.
