PRODUCT SELECTION / VERTICAL BLINDS

Aluminium Vertical Blinds

Aluminium vertical slats for a clean-lined screen across wider windows.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Aluminium Vertical gives the window a regular metal surface rather than a textile or timber treatment. The 89mm slats can tilt for daylight control and move across the track, making the arrangement suitable for a broad opening where sideways stacking is useful.

The selected metal finish determines whether the blind appears quiet or reflective. Consider it with the frame and surrounding fittings rather than choosing colour alone. A sample viewed under the room's light will show the sheen more reliably than an on-screen image.

- Metal surface with a vertical rhythm
- Tilting daylight control
- Sideways opening

ALUMINIUM VERTICAL BLINDS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Compatible aluminium finishes
- Track and draw configuration
- Supported control arrangement

Practical points

- Reflective finishes change with the light
- Adequate stack and rotation space are required
- Special performance requirements need specific confirmation

How it works

The track position, draw direction and control are specified for the window. Slats need space to turn and a clear place to stack. Where the blind sits in front of a door, access should remain straightforward once the slats have been moved aside.

Choosing the finish and details

We can review the desired finish and approximate dimensions together, then confirm the current production options. Any special commercial requirements should be included at the outset so the exact assembled product can be assessed.

Measuring, supply and installation

AdamsBlinds provides measuring as part of a supply and installation project, plus made-to-measure supply-only quotations. Send approximate dimensions, photographs and the number of blinds required to get started. We confirm the specification and final sizes before manufacture.
