PRODUCT SELECTION / DECORATIVE BLINDS

Painted Art Wood Blinds

Hand decorated wood slats with an illustrated or patterned surface.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Painted Art makes the wooden blind a visible decorative piece. The slat surface carries hand-applied patterns or artistic effects, so the completed blind has a more individual appearance than a uniform paint finish.

The collection offers several designs and slat proportions. The effect changes as the slats tilt: a composition seen with the blind closed becomes a sequence of separate surfaces when it opens. That movement is part of the way the design is experienced.

- Individual decorated surface
- Pattern changes with slat angle
- A statement window treatment

PAINTED ART WOOD BLINDS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Selected hand-applied patterns
- Compatible painted backgrounds
- Slat format and control agreed per design

Practical points

- Hand decoration is not perfectly repetitive
- Broad slats may need assisted operation
- The image is interrupted when slats turn

How it works

Hand decoration means the arrangement and individual marks can vary. We confirm the selected pattern, compatible width and operating method together, particularly for broader slats. An image shows the overall style, while a sample helps establish colour and surface character.

Choosing the finish and details

Tell us how the blind relates to other artwork or patterns in the room. We can narrow the selection and check whether the design suits the window proportions. A commissioned picture is handled through the separate Bespoke Picture range.

Measuring, supply and installation

Send approximate dimensions, photographs and the number of blinds required to get started. We confirm the specification and final sizes before manufacture.
