PRODUCT SELECTION / TIMBER SHUTTERS

Pale Finish Shutters

A restrained timber shutter with 70 mm louvres and a limited pale painted palette, for a consistent window finish without a large colour selection.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Pale Finish Shutters offer a deliberately narrow set of choices. The range uses 70 mm louvres and pale finishes for projects where the aim is a clean, coordinated appearance across several rooms.

The individual pale shades can look different beside existing paint, glazing and flooring. A sample comparison is more useful than choosing from a screen, particularly when the shutter will sit directly against painted timber or an off-white wall.

- A focused choice for pale interiors
- Consistent 70 mm louvre proportions
- Real timber with adjustable light control

PALE FINISH SHUTTERS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- A small pale finish selection
- Panel divisions to suit the opening
- Inside-reveal or suitable face-fixed framing
- Coordinated supply for several windows

Practical points

- This range has a restricted palette.
- Screen images are not an exact colour match.
- Panel dimensions and any dividing rails are confirmed before manufacture.

A simple palette with real timber beneath

The construction uses abachi wood with 10 mm thick louvres. The range is limited to three pale finish references; it is not a route to every colour available elsewhere in the collection. We confirm the current equivalents and sample references when preparing your quotation.

A side operating rod adjusts the louvres. The final appearance also depends on the number of panels, frame width and any dividing rails, so these details should be considered alongside the colour rather than left until the order is placed.

Keep a multi-window project coordinated

For several windows, share a photograph and approximate dimensions for each opening. Matching louvre sizes creates consistency, but the frame and panel configuration may still need to vary where handles, reveals or window proportions differ.

A project survey checks those differences and establishes the manufacturing dimensions. We can also quote for supply to agreed measurements. The final specification records the shade, panel arrangement and fixing details so the order can be checked clearly.
