PRODUCT SELECTION / SLIDING PANELS & SCREENS

Personalised Glass Panels

Tempered-glass sliding panels printed with approved artwork, for a project-specific screen rather than an off-the-shelf decorative pattern.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Personalised Glass Panels turn a chosen image or graphic into part of the interior. The design is printed onto a tempered-glass panel and set within an aluminium frame for a sliding installation.

They can be considered for an interior feature, a room division or a commercial graphic scheme. The artwork should be selected with the panel size, viewing distance and visible joins in mind.

- An individual design for the space
- A glazed feature with a clear panel layout
- Artwork coordinated with the installation

PERSONALISED GLASS PANELS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Photography or graphic artwork
- Single-panel or coordinated multi-panel design
- Artwork crop and orientation
- Project-specific frame and track arrangement

Practical points

- Artwork needs sufficient quality for the final size.
- Frames and overlaps affect a multi-panel image.
- Printed colour and transparency require an approved production proof.

Prepare the artwork for the opening

A picture that works on a small screen may not have enough detail for a large panel. Send the best available original file and explain how you want it cropped. We can then confirm the required file quality, dimensions and proofing process with the production specification.

Where a design runs across several panels, overlaps and gaps affect the image. Important details should not be placed where a frame or parked panel will hide them. The agreed proof should show how the artwork relates to the complete layout.

Confirm appearance before production

Colour, transparency and viewing direction depend on the selected print and glass construction. We confirm those details rather than promising that a backlit glass panel will look identical to a paper print or a phone screen.

The track and fixings are designed around the glass weight and panel dimensions. Artwork approval and the manufacturing specification should be settled before the order proceeds. You must have permission to reproduce the supplied image or artwork; any logos and brand colours should be supplied as part of the project brief.
