PRODUCT SELECTION / WOVEN WOOD AND BAMBOO

Plant Fibre Woven Blinds

Natural bamboo and mixed plant-fibre weaves for folded or roll-up blinds.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Plant Fibre Woven brings together bamboo-based designs with a more irregular, organic surface. Some weaves combine bamboo with raffia, while others rely on bamboo alone. The material and weave are identified for each selected option.

This range is distinct from the synthetic raffia-look covering used on certain Venetian slats. Here the natural strips and fibres are part of a flexible woven surface. Their differences in diameter, colour and alignment contribute to the finished character.

- Genuine plant material texture
- Several compatible blind movements
- A visibly organic finish

PLANT FIBRE WOVEN BLINDS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Available bamboo and mixed-fibre weaves
- Supported folded or roll-up system
- Edge tape where compatible

Practical points

- Natural widths, alignment and shades vary
- Not every weave suits a chain roller
- Edging availability depends on the chosen design

How it works

Compatible designs can be made into selected folded or roll-up systems. Not every weave supports every control, edge tape or roller arrangement. Natural material movement can also produce small variations in the finished drop and level, which should be understood before ordering.

Choosing the finish and details

Choose a weave sample and tell us which movement you prefer. We can then check the construction and explain any restrictions. For a very precise, uniform appearance, compare this range with the more regular wood or fabric alternatives before deciding.
