PRODUCT SELECTION / WOOD AND SCREEN

Wood and Screen Sliding Panels

Sliding veneer panels with technical screen inserts for larger windows and visual partitions.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Wood and Screen Sliding Panels use natural veneer with a selected pattern cut into the surface and filled with technical fabric. They provide a broad decorative element rather than a narrow slatted blind, making the pattern visible across a larger area.

The wood surface and screen are chosen together. Their proportions determine how open the panel feels and how much of the view is screened. Different veneer and fabric combinations can give the same pattern a very different appearance.

- Broad decorative pattern
- Natural veneer surface
- Manual sliding movement

WOOD AND SCREEN SLIDING PANELS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Compatible veneer and screen combinations
- Supported insert patterns
- Assessed track channels and parking layout

Practical points

- Parked panels need space
- Screen inserts are not an opaque wall
- Fixing and access requirements depend on the full layout

How it works

The panels move manually on a track with bearing-supported movement. The number of channels and panel arrangement are designed around the opening. Parked panels continue to occupy space, so the clear access width and the intended stacking side must be planned.

Choosing the finish and details

Provide the opening dimensions and a photograph showing the surrounding room. We can then consider panel widths, overlap, pattern and fixing positions. This is a decorative visual screen; acoustic separation or other partition performance is only included if expressly specified and supported.

Measuring, supply and installation
