PRODUCT SELECTION / WOVEN WOOD AND BAMBOO

Soft Fold Woven Wood Blinds

A woven wood blind that gathers into soft folds beneath an aluminium headrail.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Soft Fold combines a woven natural surface with an aluminium headrail. The material gathers into folds as it rises, giving a less rigid appearance than a row of separate slats while retaining a defined support at the top.

The collection supports several compatible wood and bamboo weaves. Their density and flexibility affect the finished folds. Some edging options are restricted by the weave, and the specified system does not automatically include a separate wood valance.

SOFT FOLD WOVEN WOOD BLINDS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Supported wood and bamboo designs
- Cord or chain arrangement where available
- Compatible edge details

Practical points

- A separate valance is not assumed
- Fold depth must be allowed above the window
- Edging and operation depend on the selected weave

How it works

Available operation can include a suitable cord or chain arrangement, subject to current specification. The raised fold occupies space above the opening, so its position needs to work with inward-opening windows and any visible handles.

Choosing the finish and details

Start by choosing the weave and the level of screening you want. We can then confirm compatible controls, edging and the headrail finish. If a concealed or decorative top is essential to the design, raise it before the system is selected.
