Stitched Leather Look Blinds

Synthetic leather-look slats with stitched edges and a curved aluminium core.

Stitched Leather Look places the seam within the design. A synthetic covering wraps a curved aluminium slat and is stitched around the edges, creating a more tailored appearance than an unstitched bonded surface. It is suited to interiors where that small construction detail is worth seeing.

The range includes matt and selected metallic-effect finishes. Certain combinations allow a different colour on each face, which can be useful when the room-facing and window-facing sides need different treatments. We confirm that option for the selected finish before quoting.

- Visible stitched edge detail
- Curved aluminium support
- Selected two-sided colour possibilities

STITCHED LEATHER LOOK BLINDS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Matt or selected metallic-effect coverings
- Compatible stitch and ladder colours
- Different face colours where supported

Practical points

- Not natural leather
- Eyelet and edge details affect thickness
- Two-sided options require individual confirmation

How it works

50mm, 70mm and 90mm formats are listed. Eyelet and stitch arrangements affect the thickness and finished appearance, and the control needs to suit the completed blind. This is a synthetic product with an aluminium core, even where the surface closely resembles leather.

Choosing the finish and details

Consider the stitch colour alongside the main covering. A close match keeps the edge quiet; a contrast makes it a visible detail. A physical sample is helpful for checking the sheen and the way the covering feels.
