PRODUCT SELECTION / WOVEN WOOD AND BAMBOO

Woven Wood Chain Roller Blinds

Woven wood on a top roller tube, with chain operation and coordinated edge detail.

Product illustration. The agreed specification and finish determine the supplied product.

Woven Wood Chain Roller puts a natural woven surface into a familiar roller format. The material rolls around an aluminium tube at the top of the opening, giving a different raised appearance from the traditional bottom roll-up and folded systems.

The range uses compatible wood or bamboo weaves with the necessary edge treatment. The tube and bracket size are selected to suit the material and finished drop. A heavier or longer blind may therefore need more space than a fabric roller of similar visible size.

- Natural weave in a roller format
- Top-mounted roll
- Defined chain control

WOVEN WOOD CHAIN ROLLER BLINDS

Planning your specification

Options to discuss

- Compatible woven designs
- Required coordinated edge tape
- Control side and fitting position

Practical points

- The top roll grows with blind drop and material thickness
- Open weave may not provide evening privacy
- Compatible edging is part of the construction

How it works

The chain raises and lowers the blind, with the appropriate tensioning and safety arrangement included in the specification. The top roll must clear any inward-opening sash, handle or surrounding trim. Exact bracket and fixing positions are agreed for the opening.

Choosing the finish and details

Compare the weave in transmitted light to assess privacy and shading. Tell us whether the priority is an open natural texture or a more screened appearance. We then confirm the compatible material, edging and control side.
